

Media Release: Anjel O'Bryant shares the Power of Colour & Design

There's not many professionals in the world whose work has been viewed and appreciated by the Pope, but Anjel OBryant is one of them. Anjel OBryant has been adding colour design and harmony to both people and places for over 35 years.

A consummate professional in her field, Anjel was chosen by the Sisters of St Joseph to enhance and create a special warmth for the private chapel of Mary MacKillop's church in North Sydney, in preparation for the papal visit of Pope Benedict XVI and the announcement of the canonisation of Mary MacKillop -please scroll to bottom of linked pages for photographs: <http://www.coloraction.com.au/examples.php>

Driven by her passion for enriching people's lives with scientifically based colour response technology, Anjel OBryant's myriad of work can be seen in many heritage projects, government correctional facilities, hospitals, shopping centres, corporate offices, hotels, boats, planes, jails, schools, churches, and aged care facilities.

“Creating the right environment with confidence and scientifically based colour selections, not only enhances the architecture, but also produces a positive emotional, physical and mental response relating to the function of the building, therefore greatly enriching the quality of life for the end user.”

Anjel OBryant would like to share her Colour & Design Tips with your audience including:

- How colours and shapes we wear add or remove 10 years to our look.
- What colours help to raise property values?
- Colours that excite and relax the mind.
- How can you use colour to promote your business?
- Is red the sexiest colour?

“When colour designing I use scientifically based colour response technology for Hospitals to boost the healing process. In jails to promote rehabilitation. In restaurants, colours to stimulate appetite, relaxation and enjoyment. In buses, trains and ferries, colours that help relax the nervous system and enhance enjoyment while travelling. Aged care facilities – I take into consideration the yellow haze growing over elderly people’s eyes. Alzheimers and dementia is also a growing concern, there are colours to support these elements in the elderly that can be amazingly helpful and comforting.

Author of Colour My Home, Anjel OBryant also served as the National Vice President for the Society of Interior Designers of Australia now known as the Design Institute of Australia, and is the Director of Coloraction International, a Sydney-based company offering an Action Plan of colour and design tailored to clients. Anjel’s consultancy conducts personnel training and colour workshops throughout Australia for Homeowners, Property Developers, Schools, Hospitals, Corporations and Small Business Owners. As a member of an International Colour Society, Anjel OBryant participates in cross cultural seminars to study the effects of colour throughout the world, rubbing shoulders with scientists, researchers, engineers, architects and designers.

Anjel OBryant has a dynamic and colourful personality and is available for interviews, talk-back shows, questions & answers & colour advice for your audience.
